A reception in honor of Commissioner Brown will be held in Odeon hall Wednesday evening.

Among the important purposes of the present teachers' convention three stand out in marked prominence. The first of these is the proposition to change the name of the association from the Utah State Teachers' association; the second to change the constitution and by-laws of the organization; the second to change the constitution so that the institute idea, now so prevalent in the work of the conventions, might be reduced and more of the real convention idea carried out in the annual gatherings; the third is to incorporate the association, so as to give the organization a legal entity, which is now lacking.

COMMITTEE IN SESSION.

A special committee having the matter of the consideration of these changes in hand was appointed at the last convention consisting of Prof. Fred W. Reynolds of the University of Utah, chairman; A. C. Nelson, state superintendent of schools; D. H. Christensen, city superintendent of schools; Dr. J. T. Kingsbuyy, president of the profile of the profi city superintendent of schools; Dr. J.
T. Kingsbury, president of the university; Supervisor G. N. Child. Mathonihal Thomas, Dr. George H. Brimhall, and Supt. F. M. Driggs. This committee held a meeting in President Thomas' office this morning to put the finishing touches on its report containing the recommendations in regard to the changes considered desirable.

In speaking of the report President

In speaking of the report, President Thomas said this morning: "The committee has given most ear-nest thought to the programs of future conventions, with the view to economiz-ing all the time possible and to reduce to a minimum the departmental idea, consistent with the welfare of the educational association, as the new name cational association, as the new name fmplies, without limiting the sphere of the teacher in any part, and bringing him into a closer working alliance with the trustee and the parent of the child. Heretofore the conventions have been working more along the institute idea; but the county associations have their institutes, as to the cities; the conventions have been working more along the institute idea; tions have never sent out anything, and have never adopted plans to guide the educational policy of the state. The institute idea places in the hands of the teachers the tools of his trade, well sharpened, I will admit; but the great mass of people interested in educational natters are not immediately interested n the result of the conventions; they are interested in the welfare of their chil-dren, and it is the forwarding of the interests of the child that is the great Christensen, on the basis of physical education. The convention will be asked to consider and act upon these reports. The changes in the constitution will, in my opinion, open up a field for wonderful changes for the better in the educational system or the state, and redound to the farof the state, and redound to the far-reaching benefit of all concerned." New York, Dec. 27 .- In a fire today, which burned out the three upper floors of the building at 24-26 Vandewater street, occupied by the Munroe Publishing company and Printing & Bind-ing company, four firemen were injured by a falling cornice. None was fatally hurt. The damage is estimated at $100. 600. Smoke that poured out and over the Brooklyn bridge nearly impeded trolley traffic on that structure for some time.

An excited rush of tenants from an apartment house in west Fifty-seventh street was a feature of a fire which broke out in the lower floor of the structure today. Several persons were partially overcome by the smoke before they could be rescued and assisted to the street. The elevator boy kept his car running and quickly emptied the house of its occupants. The fire was onfined to the first floor and did small damage.
